DECLARATION OF DEPUTY COMMISSIONER DAVID COHEN

DAVID COHEN declares, under penalty of perjury pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §1746, that the following statements are true and correct:

1. I am the Deputy Commissioner for Intelligence for the New York City Police Department ("NYPD"), a position I have held since February of 2002. In that capacity, I have officer. Taken together with other documents a person may learn the scope of program activities, and number of undercover officers involved.

- Description of activities - Like date, time and place information, the descriptive details reported on will allow the person about whom the report is concerned or who may have been present during the activities reported on, to realize that someone present was an undercover police officer. With data from other sources and documents, a person may determine the identity of the undercover and the scope of all undercover work across the entire investigative program. Activities will also reflect the methods used by the undercovers and aspect of their tradecraft.

19. In sum, the presence of a high level of detail in the raw, unevaluated field intelligence reports makes it possible to connect strands of information which in turn, provides a factual basis from which the identity of sources, methods and capabilities can be determined.

F. Reasons Documents Should Not Be Released

20. I emphasize that the release of the raw unevaluated field reports and other documents because they provide direct or indirect information on sources and methods would severely compromise the intelligence capabilities of the NYPD. Such a compromise would greatly undermine our ability to address the threats to New York City noted in the Appendix as well as those threats yet to surface. Indeed, based on my forty-one years experience as a career intelligence officer it is my strongest professional view that the damage to the NYPD intelligence program, a program that has become an essential element in the public security and safety of New York City in this post 11 September 2001 era, from the release of such material would be severe and irreversible.

21. Contrary to the impression raised by the press, there was never an isolated "RNC Squad" whose work was separate and discrete from the rest of the Intelligence Division's information gathering mission. Indeed, most of the personnel, including undercover personnel, and all of the methodologies were, and are involved in all aspects of the Intelligence Division's information gathering and processing responsibilities. Consequently, sources and methods damage resulting from the release of documents that I believe should be redacted or withheld, would impact on the entire intelligence program, not just a so-called "RNC Squad."

22. The raw, unevaluated field intelligence reports co-mingle the substance of our information gathering effort with data that are both source and methods revealing. The raw, unevaluated field intelligence reports contain extremely detailed information about a particular activity including the geographic location, the premises, the time of meetings, numbers of persons present often identifying them by name, relationships between undercovers and confidential informants and other contacts they might have, as well as methods of communication and the means by which information is gathered. Any attempt to remove the sensitive information which provides a basis for determining sources and methods would be futile, resulting in pages of meaningless snippets of text and punctuation.

23. The presence of the high level of detail in the raw, unevaluated field intelligence reports makes it possible to connect strands of information which in turn, provides a factual basis from which the identity of sources could be deduced and the Intelligence Division's methods of operation revealed. Open source information makes it clear that there are individuals and groups that would welcome the opportunity to connect the strands of information in the raw, unevaluated field intelligence reports. To confirm that fact one need only go to the website titled "whosarat.com" which bills itself as the largest online database of informants and agents.

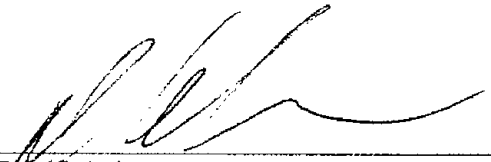

24. Open source information from the reports produced in the case and referred to in the Appendix gives an indication of how individuals and groups intent on violence and disorder, including terrorist operatives, would welcome the information contained in the raw, unevaluated field intelligence reports. For example, "Marking Law Enforcement" was the name given to a tactic posted on the Internet, Appendix at 16, which advocated the identification of suspected law that threatened to do so during the RNC. The disclosure of the raw, unevaluated, field intelligence reports would make it impossible to conduct effective investigations on such groups in the future.

G. Conclusion

30. In conclusion, I wish to state that it is my belief that releasing the raw unevaluated field intelligence reports and the redacted materials in other documents would cause certain and irreversible damage to the NYPD intelligence program, and, in turn, the NYPD's ability to defend New York City from another terrorist attack and other threats to the security and safety of the public.

1 D. Cohen - Confidential

2 (The following portion of the record
3 is read:

4 "QUESTION: What are your general
5 responsibilities in that position?")

6 A. In the broader sense, my
7 responsibility is to advise the Police
8 Commissioner on threats to the public security
9 and safety of the City from outside the City and 10 inside the City, the -- what is the nature of 11 that threat, what form it takes, and how it might 12 materialize and see its way through. And in many 13 respects that's -- that's the most important
14 function I serve.

15 The -- the corresponding
16 responsibility is to oversee the -- and provide
17 the leadership and -- and oversee the management
18 of the NYPD Intelligence Division.

19 Collateral to those responsibilities
20 is to sustain -- to develop and sustain liaison
21 relationships on behalf of the Department with 22 other law enforcement and intelligence agencies,
23 locally, regionally, nationally, and 24 internationally.

25 Q. You mentioned that amongst your

1 D. Cohen - Confidential

2 Convention in approximately January 2003, were 3 you assigned any responsibilities with respect to 4 the NYPD's activities around the convention?

5 A. What do you mean by assigned
6 activities?

7 Q. What I mean is, let's set aside the 8 word assigned, did you assume any
9 responsibilities with respect to the NYPD's
10 involvement in the convention?

11 A. Yes.

12 Q. What generally were those
13 responsibilities?

14 A. Well, as -- as I indicated before,
15 my responsibility is to advise the Commissioner
16 on -- on threats to the City from either from 17 within or without, what -- what the nature of 18 those threats might be, and what form they may 19 take, and with that general responsibility, once
20 the determination was made that -- that the RNC
21 would be located in New York, and I believe that 22 occurred in February, not January, I assumed
23 responsibility for advising them, the -- the 24 Commissioner and the Chief of the Department, I
25 might add, on those aspects of the -- the RNC.

1 D. Cohen - Confidential

2 time, and you have many things in your life
3 happening.

4 A. Right, right.

5 Q. There was a period of time where all
6 of a sudden the convention was coming and you
7 talked.

8 A. Exactly. At some point I would have 9 said to the Commissioner, you know, the 10 Intelligence Division will be responsible for 11 articulating for him and the Department
12 leadership anything we -- we determine would pose
13 a threat to the safe undertaking of the -- the 14 RNC event.

15 Q. What do you recall, if anything, and 16 I realize again, there are a lot of things
17 happening here, what do you recall about the 18 particulars of your early conversations about
19 what it was that the Intelligence Division
20 specifically would be doing?

21 A. Well, in -- in those early months
22 after the announcement was made that the RNC
23 would come to New York, there was a very public
24 reaction with respect to the, you know,
25 reconstructing the times, there is a lot of

1 D. Cohen - Confidential

2 executive group, but let me just make sure we're
3 talking about the same thing.

4 He, as I recall, testified that he
5 was a regular member of that, that First Deputy
6 Commissioner Grosso was a member of that. I
7 believe he testified that you had participated in 8 those meetings, I don't want to say all the time
9 but often, and I must say I don't remember him
10 saying anything about Mr. Sheahan, was the Deputy 11 Commissioner for counterterrorism part of that 12 group?

13 A. Chris, I honestly don't remember the 14 permanent membership. It may have changed,
15 depending on the issue of the week, or the 16 bi-weekly -- I know two people were always there,
17 and that was Commissioner -- and that is when I
18 was there, Commissioner Kelly, and the Chief of 19 Department.

20 Q. That is the same thing that he said.
21 He said that two people were always at those 22 meetings were the two of them.

23 A. There you go.

24 Q. There we go.

25 So this group got set up, we have a

1 D. Cohen - Confidential

2 MR. FARRELL: Objection.

3 A. -- characterization of it. It
4 wasn't political surveillance.

5 Q. Okay.

6 A. This was information gathering to
7 assure the security of the City and the estimated
8 800,000 people who came to participate in protest
9 activities.

10 Q. Well, I don't want to use a term
11 that you will consider misleading.

12 A. There was no political surveillance,
13 this was a program designed to determine in 14 advance the likelihood of unlawful activity or 15 acts of violence.

16 Q. And as I understand your testimony,
17 within the Intelligence Division there was no
18 name given to this program?

19 A. There was no name given to this 20 program.

21 Q. Are you familiar with the term
22 special opp?

23 A. Yes.

24 Q. Was that a term that was used to 25 describe this program?

1 D. Cohen - Confidential

2 the use of the word "program" or its 3 continued use.

4 Q. Who made the decision to undertake
5 this program?

6 MR. FARRELL: Objection.

7 A. I made the decision to initiate an 8 effort of information gathering with an eye
9 towards identifying the possibility of unlawful 10 activity and/or violence in New York City during 11 the period immediately before and during the 12 Republican National Convention.

13 Q. Did there come a point in time in
14 which you informed Commissioner Kelly that you
15 had made that decision?

16 A. It was marbled into life at the 17 time.

18 Q. That is an expression I remember you
19 using before.

20 A. Hmm?

21 Q. I said that is an expression that I
22 remember you using before in a different context,
23 but what I'm asking you is, understanding that,
24 does that mean that yes, there was a point in 25 time in which you informed or Commissioner Kelly

1 D. Cohen - Confidential

2 The investigations that took place
3 following these leads in fact produced
4 information for the Intelligence Division, is 5 that fair to say?

6 A. Yes.

7 Q. And where I started with this was 8 about the periodic briefings that you provided to 9 the RNC executive group.

10 And the question I asked you was did
11 those briefings include information about the 12 investigations that were conducted by the 13 Intelligence Division following the leads that
14 you said were produced through the on-line
15 investigation, or the on-line review process?

16 MR. FARRELL: Objection.

17 A. The -- the information -- the 18 overwhelming proportion of the intelligence, I
19 would have used in the briefings of the executive 20 committee would have emanated from the things we 21 were learning from the on-line research effort,
22 not exclusively, but predominantly.

23 Q. So I take it then that it would be
24 fair to say that setting aside the exact
25 proportions, that information that was gathered

1 D. Cohen - Confidential

2 through the investigations that took place was 3 part of the information that was conveyed through 4 these briefings to the RNC executive group?

5 MR. FARRELL: Objection.

6 A. Because I sat through the pre-break
7 discussion, I'm educated by it, or informed by 8 it.

9 The -- the -- again, I want to 10 emphasize the predominant share of the 11 information that I used to brief the executive
12 committee and Commissioner Kelly would have come
13 from what is in this pile.

14 Q. I understand you're using the term
15 "predominant", but you also made it quite clear
16 it was not the exclusive source of that 17 information?

18 A. Correct.

19 MR. DUNN: So, Peter, I think we 20 should call Judge Francis, and I think we 21 should schedule a time to talk to him, if 22 he can see us now, talk to us in a half an 23 hour, we can do that.

24 MR. FARRELL: Are you proposing
25 here, you're saying you want to call him

1 D. Cohen - Confidential

2 know what was happening, guidance, whatever, was 3 in writing?

4 MR. FARRELL: Objection.

5 A. My guess is it was not in writing.

6 Q. Do you recall ever seeing any
7 written guidance or instructions to Captain
8 DiMartino or to the people working under his 9 supervision about the identification of relevant
10 RNC information that would be then forwarded to 11 the Chiefs for consideration?

12 A. Say that again, because my mind went 13 someplace else, I'm sorry.

14 MR. DUNN: Read that back.

15 (The record is read.)

16 A. I think, and again, this is how I
17 believe it worked, streams of reporting or 18 knowledge coming from this effort could have 19 taken different forms. We just uncovered that 20 there is a plan or people are starting to talk
21 about doing this bad thing. If there were a
22 website, a chat room that said no, we shouldn't 23 do those things, both pieces of information would 24 have moved up.

25 Q. Okay, I understand that. What I'm

10 MR. FARRELL: Objection.

11 A. I want to make it clear. There is

13 are two different meetings. You are talking
14 about a meeting when we were discussing the 15 RNC.

16 Q. Yes, I'm sorry. As you recall you
17 described the special RNC meeting as being in 18 the form of an Executive Staff meeting?

19 A. Yes.

20 Q. I'm referring to those particular
21 meetings?

22 A. Okay.

23 Q. As I understand it, there was a
24 meeting where, setting aside the specific date
25 of that meeting, a decision was made to put in

1 J. Esposito

2 place a no-summonses policy during the

4 A. Yes.

5 Q. I'm going to focus on that meeting.

6 A. Yes.

7 Q. At that meeting, what recollection,
8 if any, do you have about the specific factual
9 information that was provided to you and 10 Commissioner Kelly on the issue of whether or 11 not the Department should adopt a no-summonses

19 Q. Okay, when you say would have been,

4 MR. FARRELL: Objection.

5 A. Not that I recall right now.

6 Q. Was the decision to adopt a
7 no-summonses policy for the Convention a
8 decision that would have been jointly made by 9 you and Commissioner Kelly?

10 A. Ultimately it is his decision.

11 Q. Do you recall him saying any words
12 at the meeting where the decision was made in 13 which he expressed his views or his decision
14 that that would be the policy?

15 MR. FARRELL: Objection.

16 A. I don't recall.

19 now some circumstances in which DATs could be

MR. FARRELL: To the extent that that question calls for anybody's comments other than the final decision-maker on the mass arrest processing plan, I am going to instruct the witness not to answer that. I am going to assert the deliberate process.

Q. Did Commissioner Kelly express any qualms with regard to any aspects of the final ultimate mass arrest plan?

A. No qualms.

Q. Okay. Is what you're saying about the way decision-making works in the executive staff, that other members of the executive staff may give advisor guidance to the police commissioner, but that any ultimate decision is ultimately his and there is only one ultimate decision-maker within the New York City Police Department and that's Commissioner Kelly?

19 MR. FARRELL: Objection. And I
20 specifically object to the breadth and 21 overbreadth of that question.

22 A. When we plan, the RNC committees
23 are formed. Decisions are made. These 24 decisions or -- I guess they are 25 recommendations, the whole plan is brought to the police commissioner, is presented to him by myself, other members of the executive staff. His seal of approval goes on the plan. Much of that plan takes in decisions made by other people. So that decision is made by someone else.

But ultimately I guess by definition it's a recommendation until it's approved by the police commissioner. Yes, I guess it's a recommendation.

Q. I mean, in some other circumstances within the police department when we're not dealing with large events, special events like the RNC, the police commissioner delegates ultimate decision-making power to yourself or other high members?

A. Yes.

Q. Doesn't personally review them, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. But during the RNC, my question is whether or not the police commissioner had to personally review and ultimately sign off

MR. FARRELL: Objection. I instruct the witness not to answer that on the basis of deliberative process, and also note for the record that this entire area of inquiry has been gone over in the prior three days.

Q. In any event, you were comfortable with the decision and it was a decision that was ultimately, as far as you know, signed off on by Commissioner Kelly, correct?

MR. FARRELL: Objection.

A. Yes.

Q. Was it a decision in which -- without telling me what his position was -- was Chief of Patrol Estavillo involved in the decision as to whether to adopt a no summons rule or not?

A. I don't know if he was at that meeting.

Q. How about the first deputy commissioner, was it George Grasso at the time?

A. It was George Grasso, and I believe he was at the meeting, and I think Estavillo was at the meeting also, I'm just not positive.

Q. But it's your memory that the origin
